Since WebCatalog 3 was first introduced on March 5th, it has been downloaded and used daily by thousands of users around the world. WebCatalog has helped its users to simplify their workflows and improve the productivity significantly.

Thanks to all the feedback and supports from our awesome community, WebCatalog has involved rapidly in the last two months. WebCatalog 4 with its additions of web navigation features had made WebCatalog more and more suitable as an app and browser replacement.

Today, after weeks of developing and testing, we proudly introduce to you our latest and biggest major update, WebCatalog 5, with many new changes and improvements.

New Branding

New WebCatalog macOS icon.

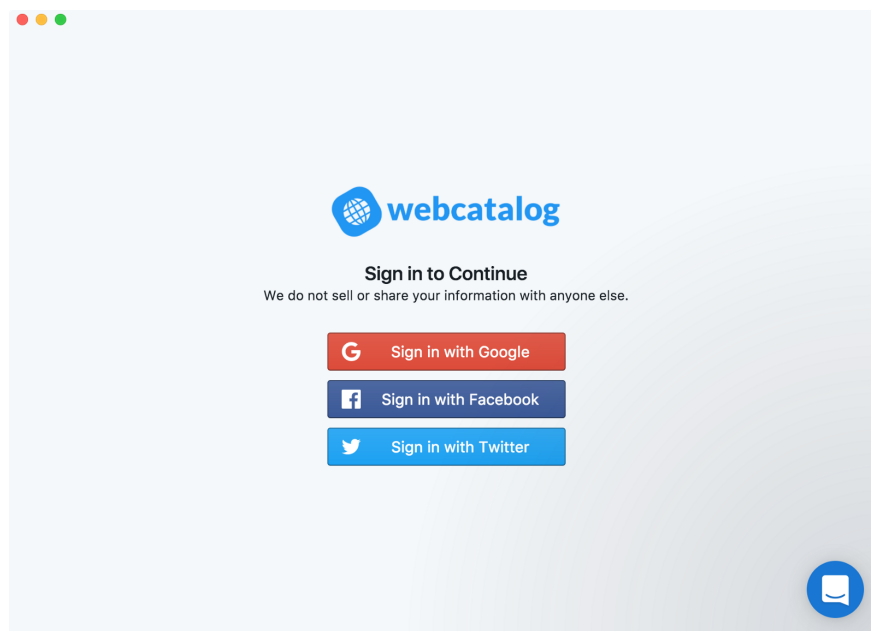

WebCatalog logo is redesigned to make it easier to recognize the app (and of course, also to make it look better).

In the center of the icon is a globe icon represented the Web, the Cloud—the technologies WebCatalog apps rely on which allow those apps to always stay up-to-date and lightweight. Surrounding the earth is a box represented each app runs within its container like a full-fledged desktop app.

Additionally, we use the fresh and beautiful Material Design Colors as our new branding colors.
